
Subject: Re: st0rm petition sign or no sign
Posted by Crimson on Wed, 29 Feb 2012 05:13:54 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

halo2pac wrote on Tue, 28 February 2012 22:02Crimson wrote on Tue, 28 February 2012 16:25His "friend" at the DoD has allegedly given him a 20-page file on me. He's pasted me some of the information from the file, but nothing that can't be found publicly at this point. But, I'm not taking any chances.

By pure logic alone, any imaginary friend of his who works at the DoD is not going to give him shit. Dissemination of peoples files is a criminal offense. There is no way in hell his 'friend' is going to loose his job over a stupid fight over a stupid video game. (ren's not stupid, but my point?)

Crimson, I feel bad for ya. But you shouldn't be scared, just file a complaint. He is bluffing you, and just trying to get a rise out of you.

Also I googled the personal information attached to the DNS alias of this site and found who you are in 5 seconds.

Congrats on your engagement, and make your myspace private.

Out of curiosity, who from the forums hooked you up with your fiance?

BTW.. I really really really dont want to be banned for this, I love you guys, and I am proving a point here that you can find personal info in 3 seconds about anyone online by just googling!!!!

I'm not sure what I said that made you think that I 1) believe him or 2) am scared of him. I'm not.

Nothing on my (lol) MySpace page is anything I consider to be "private" information. Unlike him, I do not live a life of crime where I need to hide from anything or anyone. And I know how to hide the DNS registration of my domains if necessary, but registering them to a PO Box is much less expensive.
