i actually talked with the server host last night and we discussed alot of things to come for his server he's going to expand the website when he gets a chance(he's very busy)

Also he's connecting the new fiber system this coming week....it was suppose to be set to go this previous week but he has other things to straighten away on the system

Keep your eye on the ping you'll get coming withen the next week or 2

BTW better make that 830-900 est

Games seem to be going the time limit today with the server full
