I noticed a similar issue on my main desktop rig fully loaded bells and whistles where that should never behave in that manner and had similar issues.

My fix was screen resolutions as long as I am running Renegade in the screen resolution and refresh rate that is currently being set by system video controlled by Nvidia Controller the issue goes away any more or less than that have issues such as your describing.

Basically try to match Renegade video display setting to that of your Video Controller settings try that see if it helps.
