DragonFgAnd she doesnt respond when she's mad its like she wants to stay mad and wont let it go.

shit, i need a woman like that... (btw, she is just dealing with it differently then you, not badly, but some people require extreme methods to get over stuff, personally, i like to be alone till i can't think about it anymore, then i can come back to the person i am with and be happy, not sit there looming about a past problem) believe me, women are frustrating whether they want to constantly talk about there problems, or constantly want to get away from you when angry, simply do this, if she is doing what she is doing, it has been over for a while, otherwise... well dude, i would end it, nothing in this relationship sounds healthy...
