posting this on behalf of someone who doesn't wanna be identified.....

Okay I have been playing for a while and I am a very honest player when it comes to things. Joe as a moderator is not needed. I honestly do not know why he chooses to be one when he knows he is going to get into fights. He lives for this stuff. Joe does provoke people into these fights. He always has to have the last say in it. I see it all the time in game. Yes I admit maybe some people are deserving of it and they do start it first. That is only because they either know Joe will come after them or because they are idiots. In saying that, it is always a problem with Joe. There is a trend. Every complaint or issue in n00bstories relates to Joe. The man is just always where the action is at, and he loves it. He loves showing his power and he loves being a dick.

There are times in games when he says he is leaving. Then he continues a fight with someone for the next 10 minutes. Half the time the fights are amongst other people and are not even related to him|. He wants people to bow down to him and say that Joe is right and they are wrong and that he is so such a good mod because he is a hard ass. Mods do not need to be hard asses. Joe says all the time in game, if you are going to be an ass to me, at least stick to it and don't go soft. The thing is Joe, that they can't be a tough guy when you mute or kick them. And for the record, not everyone that talks to you is a "tweener." Like honestly enough with that bull shit. I don't know why you continue to be a mod or play renegade when you are so stressed from work that you want to take it out on others. If you were well liked in the server, there would not be so many problems.

You are not that good of a player either. You accuse and kick so many people for cheating because they kill you. You are always a terrible sakura or mammoth camper. Most of the time you are a useless sakura, especially in games when tanks are needed. You have no concept for the game at all. Sure you can have fun and snipe but then you bitch to others to do something useful. Anyway back on track here. Below are lists of a bunch of forum post on the n00bstories site all pertaining to Joe. Most of them are recent.

Like I said before, maybe some of those people are at fault, but Joe handles the situation terribly and shows his power along with being a jerk getting the last word. The sad thing is all the mods will back him up and praise how tough he is when it is complete bull shit. They are just afraid to lose their power and be looked down upon in the server. You guys are all at fault and just admit it please. We all know every time Joe is in the server a problem happens. It is a game!! Let people have some fun and have some smack talk. This is not a prison damn it. Sure some control must be initiated but give the people their own fights. The second he jumps into a fight it goes on for the whole fucking map. If Joe would have stayed out of it then the fight would have ended long ago.

n00bstories mods and admins please consider. Just let the guy go. I am sure Joe would love to change his name and just play as a regular player who keeps his mouth shut and does not have to mod his "tweeners." He personally makes it his agenda to get involved in people's business to find out their true motives. JUST PLAY THE GAME!
