This should not surprise you, I am actually more surprised they were not both males, or better yet, both the same person. (And now that I read the whole quote I see they were... surprise).

Webcam is about the best you can do to prove that someone on-line is what they claim to be and even then, that will not prevent somebody from paying a prostitute, or perhaps a close friend, to hop on the cam to trick you.

I think the rule of thumb is, if it's a girl, and she likes you on-line it's probably too good to be true.
