I know that and I don't need that right now.

I don't want it to play a sound when we get it I want it to play a sound when someone comes up to me and press's e on me.

That will do that. The problem is, that script says "3D" sound. Which means it requires a Vector3, because that sound plays at a specific position in the world and gets quieter the farther you are from it.

So yes, you do need that right now.
