Well, let's look at it objectively. You're asking me to be nice to you. That's great, I can understand that - everyone wishes to be accepted and loved in even a trivial manner. However, you can't expect me to be "nice" to you when you've been a raging dickbag to me for the past three years. You let those ButtHurtProductions people influence your thinking and prejudged me. So really, unless you're actually interested in some attempt at reconciliation (I'm really quite a nice person offline. I just don't filter what I think online - AKA I don't give a shit, in many cases), feel free to PM me. Or you can e-mail me. There's a thousand different ways to actually discuss something if you're truly interested in it.

Or don't, either way.
