There's probably more that came over to post, and the whining that happened after GC posted about this thread over there. You'll forgive me if I can't remember everyone off the top of my head. So why are you defending them, anyhow? Judging from your demeanor and the scant information available about you, plus your oddities concerning spanking it to anything that vaguely resembles the opposite sex - I imagine you look similar to this guy:

/Also, those goalposts you set earlier? You don't get to move them.
//You said they don't care, yet they clearly do. Even one counts. Eat shit - or make a better argument.
