
Subject: Re: The Avengers Spoilers Maybe

Posted by Wallywood on Wed, 27 Jun 2012 02:45:29 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Gohax wrote on Tue, 26 June 2012 19:34liquidv2 wrote on Tue, 26 June 2012 15:59what the fuck is krav maga and what do you mean MMA only works in a ring? if it works in a ring why wouldn't it work anywhere else?

MMA will work anywhere. I have a friend that does MMA in the ring. He's not big yet, just state-wise, but he's 5-0 and he's sparred with people and trained with people in the UFC. He's only ever been in one fight, and he'll tell you the only reason why he won was because of his training in MMA (which the fight was entirely self-defensive, as I believe MMA fighters aren't allowed to fight outside the ring, anyway).

Awesome to hear, and your info I very accurate. If we fight outside the ring/cage. Not only can we be charged more extreme then the average civilian, but we can be dropped by our pit/gym and sponsors. Also your fighting licence can be suspended up to a year starting after the court trail and or commission trail. and be hit with some pretty BIG fines.
