reborn wrote on Mon, 02 July 2012 14:47 This is the thing though... You don't respond to logic. You simply go and have another mini stroke and re-invent things in your mind to suit your reality. You justify your own actions by any means necessary, even if the justification only applies to yourself, and no one else in any other situation.

You ignore reality, and countless people telling you the same fucking shit. You put it down to people just jumping on a band-wagon, or being retards.

Seriously, you need some counselling. Talk through your issues with someone.

i'm not surprised that someone else that has dealt with you previously is saying the exact same thing i've been telling you rather than brushing it off, you should consider the possibility that it's true why do you keep using the word "ammo"? you say retarded things, and then cannot handle it when people call you out on them you instead act like people are e-bullying you or trying to make a scene next time, you should refrain from saying retarded things and embarrassing yourself

just a suggestion
