15,000 is quite the ambitious target... not sure you will be able to raise that in just one month... but still, good luck to you. I read through your KickStarter page and they key point I felt was missing is a summary of why existing solutions are not optimal and how FaultTrack aims to improve on those solutions.

Also... no love for us C++ & WinForms developers?