Things still don't add up.

Since when it was it common sense to not turn TeamViewer and/or FTP server offline to your home computer whenever you're going away for a period of time? Especially knowing that you have the very source code to what can make or break this game (that you've oh so cared about for so many years.)

I have lots of code for lots of applications that I am involved in the development of. I access my PC from work some times, and whenever I am away from my iPad or other device. It was always on...

TeamViewer does not give ANYONE a crystal clear picture and would be terrible for someone to try to play games over it. It's not playable, the latency and picture distortion would make what you claim to be impossible.

It may not of been teamviewer, I had several remote tools running, it could of been any of them quite frankly.
Although I have witnessed what you're describing before, and agree it's almost impossible to play like it. I can't offer any other solution though. :-/

You also claim to have been asleep through all of this, yet at the same time you were on our teamspeak (yes, YOU, we all know what you sound like and we got ear-witnesses) and being fraps'd of you locking onto people randomly in my server. Since when do people sleep, talk, and play games (and test their cheats out) while being asleep?

I was in teamspeak with you play renegade, and I was not cheating.
If you look up when these videos where taken, I am 100% positive you will not of seen/heard me in Teamspeak with you, simply because it was not me.

Weird how your old reborn account got unbanned recently off UC..

My account was un-banned quite some time ago.
Are you suggesting that I emailed the admins and offered to make renegade hacks so I would be un-banned? I'm not sure were you're going with that.

Weird how the screenshots of your game using sshot match up with the screenshots of 0x91 showing off his new hack.

The screen resolution is the same, I get it. However, if they remoted to my PC, then it would be the same, wouldn't it?

If you don't 'buy it' that's a shame. It genuinely does bother me what people think. I can't offer up any other explanation.
