Believe it or not - It's been quite peaceful over on our side of the pond. People I have imagined would never get along with each other (imagine G1D, shaitan, Xpert, even reborn to an extent) all getting along and doing something productive for a common cause..

I'd like to say that I was the one who made it happen (communication is key) - but I think a common courtesy exists in everyone on some level and even the trolls like playing in our server where they know they can enjoy the game (and its' mods) without getting hassled. That's a right I extend out to everyone.

We're pretty much drama free aside from some small shit that every community has to go through. I don't tolerate it though, and for the most part that's why I tend to avoid these forums lol
