Our mod is in it's infancy and slowly being built up and altered going by what the community wants. Pretty soon you won't be able to buy anything outside of your base using commands, and they'll be ultra expensive - same goes for the weapons.

Fact is, our community has been around for about 2 months now and we've been doing great. People have been trying to come in and "help" (we don't need it, you do ) and for the most part, people like our server. If you don't - great. Guess what? I don't give a fuck lol, I don't even like the ability to buy tanks - but if that is what my community wants and keeps them satisfied, why the hell am I going to spit at the majority of my community's faces and do otherwise? That would be bad leadership you retards.

Obviously i'm doing something right, if you don't agree with it - continue playing where you have and fuck off.
