Huh? Not at all, why are you asking? (Or: Why do you ask?)

DJ, I've come to like you over time, so I'm not criticizing you here, I just wanna help. You're really fuelling his argument by replying with sloppy english, sorry :-/

If im currently asking this question the terms of how you put it into a sentence where actually correct. Both ways are possible, so the result in how the question needs to be asked is correct one way or another. But ser. i cant be bothered to speak a 2. language perfect which isnt my nature language, i still do much better than a few whos main language is english, im fine with it, and others are also, dont be so n33tpickin

Your English is perfectly legible considering English isn't your first language, I'd like to see some of the people joking about your English skills try and type/talk fluent German. On the other hand, MDK can barely speak/type English so, maybe anythings possible.
