at one point I thought you was diff billie...when I first started at area .. you know no problem in game or forums not one ? then one person started to temhamper and taunt me in game . you asked me to pass anything that happen on to you first and not to post in forums . you know that everything started from that and just carried on till we got to the same stage we are at now .

History...

started at storm with that one person I posted in forums . where he was admin and log,s was hidden and edited . all the mod team and the owner[wilo] all saw only the admins side of the story . he had more buddies in game and on staff ..thet lead to me and the owner [wilo] takeing the argument out of forums and he also got most other servers to ban me or some just did so as they seen me as the trouble maker all those same people are still in game and or admins and mods .

and the story repeates itself

storm
area rencorner
matrix
mp

what do all these servers have in common all the same mods and all arguments start with eike where those same mods take his side.

tell me any of you what problems have you had from me in game or forums that eike was not at the root of ?

You wasn't actually banned from TmX, but in light of your recent actions in this thread, I don't want you round our playerbase, its sad to think that I blocked a complete ban on you because I thought you deserved a second chance, as I'm no longer blocking this action its went ahead and I can truly say I wont lose any sleep over it.

In regards to you evading, good luck. We've been around long enough, we have many tools at our disposal to keep players that we don't want around out.

I'm not taking anyone's side, but its the likes of you, why I advise people not to share personal information online.
