I can't fathom why you would waste both of our times posting here, besides possibly feeding your hunger for attention. I'll only give you the benefit of responding once, i'm pretty sure that's all i'll need.

Agent wrote on Sat, 26 January 2013 03:47So in the months of late, there's been a rise in popularity of the RenCorner servers, who have what are arguably the worst administrators to ever assemble. The owner is a bicurious 19-year-old pothead/growing alcoholic from New York, who seems to think it's great to be "from da hood nigga" and spread misinformation so that he can get away with banning anybody he pleases. Their co-owner named Volcom/Trojan is an arrogant prick, who payed Ani a grand the day before (or of?) he gained his position at RenCorner -- I bet it was completely based on merit. So what, we've got an idiot who'll sell-out his community for drug money, is that it?

Woah woah, back the fuck up here. Do I smell a hypocrite? Talk about spreading misinformation lol, i'm not bicurious, bisexual, gay, or anything other than straight. I'm sure everyone cares about the other details as well, such as my age, hobbies, and the terrible staff that has given you multiple chances to clean up your act. But yes, I do "think" I can ban anyone I please, considering I own the community, but do I go on banning sprees? Do I ban people completely out of the blue for no apparent reason? I don't think so, more like getting rid of immature imbeciles like yourself who don't realize they're spoiling the fun for others, we're playing video games dude, grow up. I'm sure you're jealous of my ability to ban people, if you were to put down your hammer you'd be sitting there by yourself on teamspeak . As for my business arrangements with Volcom, if he paid me a grand for a position, why would I wait any longer than a day to give it to him, and what does that have anything to do with you? You make no sense dumbass.

Oh, but I get it. Might have something to do with him taking your spot, doesn't it? You're jealous of the fact that the only thing you were able to do was suck my dick for a few months and offer to merge your 4 year old, 3-man community show called SSIGaming. Obviously, you're a great community owner. Your entire community is hosted on a free VPS that you stole from someone you hate, and your entire staff is made up of people without any kind of experience or is all over the place. You're such a great community owner, why does your forum look like a carbon copy of mine?

Quote:Well, this particular community owner also happens to be the type to packet flood your home connection (he doesn't know how to do anything beyond that) because of a minor incident where you manage to delete the work you've done for his community after he decides to remove you entirely for no apparent reason (no, I mean it - no reason). Oh, but after he's finished his attacks, he'll try to lure you back so that he can get more work out of you, since nobody else in the community knows how to maintain their own servers. As long as you're entirely dedicated to his servers, and nothing but, you'll be fine with no problems at all; though if you do happen to have your own community, be prepared for accusations that you're stealing users who have been around your community before theirs even existed...

I packet flooded your home connection? You might wanna look into your own clique of stupidity for that one. Also, since when was deleting a Minecraft server with over 5k~ registered users a "minor incident?" Maybe if someone deleted your server it'd be a minor incident as only so many would notice, but don't disrespect everyone in my community because you couldn't control yourself. Also, when the fuck did I even try to lure you back to RC? After you deleted the MC server and your ban mysteriously disappeared, you came back to RC on your own accord, only to continue sucking me off and others to try to get "an official position" in RC. Did I ever give you your position back? How many times did you beg me to bring you back in simply because of how bored you were? Nobody knows how to maintain our servers, right? Well, if that was true, than imagine how big we would be if we did have someone who knew how to maintain our servers? Imagine how big your community would be if you had someone actually capable of running it?

Quote:
Even before I touched MC servers, I developed for RC's Renegade server. I'm rather glad I ceased any real connection with their Renegade server -- it'd be awful if I'd given them something that's actually unique and useful. I intend no offense to most of the members and staff there, some of them are great people. Though, the owner of a community can't just irrationally ban-ban-ban players, just because they're upset -- there will eventually be nobody left to ban.

The only thing you ever gave RenCorner were headaches for everyone involved in it. From the utter crap plugins you made for our Ren server which were used for about a week, to the plugins you put on our MC server and badly configured, you were a constant nuisance, including your terrible attitude of getting into arguments with everyone.

in what game? not in renegade at least

Yeah, because shaitan and myself are the worst administrators in the world. Too bad we have a community full of support and people who think we're going in the right direction. At least at MPF, you can be a server admin within a month, and a full mod within a week. I love how they disabled their forum plugin that showed who connected in the last 24 hours, you only saw people with mod status or above and maybe 4-5 actual members, lmao.

But since I love you iRAN, here's RenCorner sniper server at 4am and everyone else..
Toggle Spoiler Want me to go into my folders and find our Marathon server smacking the other servers up just as well? You would have to pay me to waste my time again.
