Black-Cell had the best moderators, no offense to other servers, except rencorner!

Also it had subtle modifications that made the game more fun

A non-overpowered-veteran system that actually made sense.

!commanders, a person with the highest ladder ranking would assume the role of commander on the team(moderator of VIP would overrun this), where they could issue commands, people followed them more as it wasn't a labeled person showing the commands it just said commander.

Boss use of keycfg,

F4 - Would be a custom radio command to repair the building with the lowest HP

F5 - The last person you hit it would said "Focus Fire on Playername - Vehicle/Character"

Cant remember the rest but they made sense

Community events were boss, WD spawning like 3k mammals on maps, also loading in other maps on maps.

Crates were boss

Soo much more I probably forgot, basically it was a unique modified server that didn't shit all over gameplay or alter it too much
