you shouldn't expect anything less from EA at this point; that's all they do, and they make no attempt to hide it the worst part is people keep buying into it time and time again the only plus side this time around is the game will be so shitty in the first place that it won't make any money using the free to play system - take that you franchise-destroying faggots for anyone interested in Star Wars and any games related to it, you should be pleased to know Disney has EA making their next games for the next few years RIP lol
