It has been having an effect on their player count and you're not the only one who's reluctant to play on their server now in fear for getting randomly banned.

That logic makes no sense. Not playing somewhere in order to not get randomly banned. That implies self-banning, so that they cannot maybe ban you. Not joining because of fear of being banned has the same effect as being banned. Only difference is that the chances of getting banned are still incredibly slim.
