Okay, humor does not transfer over text apparently. I was entirely joking in the fact that one of the most talented developers on the TT team had to tell me that all the files on our web server were 404ing...

Sorry, I genuinely appreciate your help or I wouldn't have asked!

EDIT:

I added .* as application/octet-stream and that fixed all the 404 errors! Security issue, but IIS is terrible anyway and I need to move everything back to Apache. I'm still gonna try actually downloading a map before I say this is fixed, but that probably did the trick. Thanks for your help!
