It's cool to believe in that stuff. Not to go so far as saying "THE ALIENS ARE COMING IN 2005, WE MUST ALL PREPAAAAAARE", just not discrediting it.

Do aliens exist? The universe is infinite, I think the chances are pretty high.

Are they skinny and gray with big black eyes, flying around in saucers above our planet? No.

Ferhagol think the surest sign of intelligent alien life is that none of it has tried to contact us

I realize that's a joke (Lol ), but I hate when people say "Intelligent life doesn't exist because it hasn't contacted us".

"Intelligent" life does not mean "freaking genius" life. By what sort of logic at all does alien life have to be more advanced than us? Yes, we send out radio signals as an "attempt" to contact alien life. Pphhht. Last I heard, broadcasts from the 40s are only reaching Pluto right about now.

Humanity is sickeningly self-centered. "Because they haven't done anything for/to us" is never a good reason for anything.

Compared to past history, that statement is like:

Poland, 1930: "Germany doesn't have an army hostile towards us because they haven't attacked us with it."

or

Christopher Columbus, 1490: "There are no other continents because no one has sailed to Europe from them."
