I had a fiddle with the settings on my monitor at work and came to the conclusion that is basically cannot render that image in anything other than black smudges... min/max brightness, min/max contrast and various combinations thereof didn't make any noticable difference to it. Even tried switching between the various colour temperatures...

Given that my monitors at work are cheap Dell rubbish I suspect you're going to find the people who're having problems simply have cheap monitors that render dark images very poorly... might not be anything you can do about it.
