If you don't think bullets have random spread in stock ren then you weren't paying attention. Some do, and some don't.

And EWD, I think the point was that competitive teams that play together and work together could test the balance well. I don't believe anyone besides Starbuzz(I didn't even know he ever did CWs) was trying to ignite a debate about the skills of normal pub players vs CW players. I think the point was that you'd get more of a sense of the balance if you didn't have a bunch of people going lone wolf, and instead had a team cooperating together.

Now I'm remembering when Spooky would randomly get SBH in our CWs lol.
