no friend would say the kind of things you have about me, true or untrue you act like i'm a bad person for taking mod-related action against you - you're the one that actually did things wrong, and you forced my hand am i supposed to just ignore it or let it slide because we've hung out a few times? what kind of person would that make me? a tool, i'd say i'm being unbiased here, whether you can understand and believe that or not, and despite what you say every time something happens to you the kind of things you say to people when you're upset is, not only uncalled for, it's completely unacceptable

i'm sorry if you can't help that, but that's ultimately not something i can control, nor is it my problem

people shouldn't have to put up with that if they want to hang around the Jelly community i'm sorry you don't understand that, and i'm sorry if you're actually upset about it, but it's on you i'll see you in 6 months
