I've had that issue before with much older builds. A few months back I reported an issue where if you, in-game, change hotkeys the hotkeys configuration gets corrupted and some radio commands stopped working. I was rebinding Laser weapons to 4 (instead of default 7 key) and some other things like moving the team info key to 'Q'. After doing that some radio commands stopped working until I modified the config file in a text editor and fixed it up.

I think the ctrl+alt thing issue comes from that.
