Certainly nostalgic to see these forums online once again. Well done (and thank you)! I started playing public games again about a year or so ago. And competitive again maybe 6 months or so. This game remains incredibly unique.

Crimson, on a more personal note: I sincerely apologize for being a pain in the rear end many years ago. A lot has changed in my life since then (for the better), and looking back at some of our exchanges I am embarrassed to be confronted with my old cranky self-centered self. Happy to have a private conversation if you find it necessary, otherwise I'm hoping it's water under the bridge. (I had a good laugh when I saw I still had a custom title configured!)
