Hearing the news made me think back to all my time playing Renegade and hanging out on the n00bstories IRC and forums here. The nostalgia was powerful enough to make me want to come find this place and make a post. Don't have the email for my old account here anymore though alas.

I'm wondering what the source code finally being released might lead to. Maybe there will be bit of a revival for Renegade because of it. At least I hope so.

All the time I played this and other C&C games when I was younger will stay with me for life. I miss it and a lot of the people I used to regularly play and chat with, thanks for the great times everyone!
