
Subject: Some words from Greg Hjelstrom -
Posted by StoneRook on Mon, 10 Mar 2003 21:50:12 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I would write Greg email every now and then when i was stuck with a serious problem with modding Renegade - and he always answered - which in itself - something you would hope all game makers would do.

Anyway - when WestWood closed - i found out he resigned -- so i sent him an email expressing all our best wishes for him and his own - and told him we would keep this game alive -- he was kind enough to send the following reply:

Quote: Hey Bobby, good job with the mod faq and thanks for the kind words. I am really glad that a lot of people had and are having a lot of fun with Renegade. It is still weird to think that Westwood is gone because its all I've known for the past 7.5 years.

take it easy,

greg

So - please - tip your cup to 'Greg Hjelstrom' - for it was his hard work that made modding Renegade possible.

And - please - try to help keep the community alive --- before you flame or get stupid - ask yourself - "will this help the community?"

Because - if you allow yourself to fall into the depths of flames/trolldom - this game and community will just be dust.....
