Well I just started playing Renegade again after a haitus of a month or two... and within the first week I've been banned from 2 or 3 servers, which is just ludricrous. I've never really been a person who comes to these boards often... I usualy just read posts as a guest but never really put my 2 cents in, but here it goes... Simply put, things are getting way out of control with accusations of cheating and arbitrary banning.

So far I was banned from the FUD servers, for what I don't know (and yes I have read there rules at there website)... All I was doing was hauling some ass in an apache then boom I was banned. Was banned from another server for swearing i believe ( thats my fault though hehe). And just tonight I was continually being kicked from one of the sniper only servers because i owned one of the mods hardcore... Shot him in the head a few times, and killed some other players with much ease (I'm a good sniper), and they scream that I cheat... so bam I'm banned again. Pisses me right off...

Has this community succumbed to the hordes of whiny twelve year old server mods who cannot get over the fact that other people are better than them? Who will be left to play this game when everyone has been banned hmhhh? Good job on killing this already suffering game...

For shame!
