Sir PhoenixxCrimsonAfter all the work Blazer and I (but mostly Blazer) did to get the old posts from the former forums imported? Start over? hah!

Maybe you could open up the new version, and the version you used to create these forums and compare them in a text editor to see what's changed and add the new stuff into the current forum code...

And you could just update to the newer forums without hurting that much... The posts would still be there and the theme should still be there too. You'd just have to tweak it a little bit so that the new version works just as flawlessly with the current theme/settings.

That's correct... I think most of the work I did wouldn't be lost. Just waiting for the new version to come out so we can evaluate it
