TaximesInfinit, your desktop is the anti-OCD

I could never stand a messy desktop. Whenever I'm on the computer, I always have apps open so I never see it, but I still only have programs on there that I would use from startup, like games and things. Everything else is in the 20 most used programs list in the startup menu same here i just make a folder called My Programs and but it in the task bar and ues it when ever i need it and have the programs i ues most fited in to the desktop wallpaper
