JarheadDBBThanks a lot man, its been bothering me a lot. I see your in the Marines (or were not sure) How was basic training for you? Hell? Thanks again!

Once a Marine always a Marine, boot camp was longer and tougher back when I went in, after about a week I thought I was gonna die...LOL. It was one of the toughest and one of the best times in my life. It did wonders for many of us that thought we were "tough", learned very quickly that we weren't. I served as a combat engineer specializing in explosives.

I can understand that you felt that you'd die. I have a friend who moved to the states last year and joined the Seals, Hell week was "a fat-ass bitch with a shitty tude" in his words.
