

---

Subject: Johnny Depp views on America.

Posted by DanSolo on Fri, 05 Dec 2003 16:02:45 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

AircraftkillerNo, probably not. Kyoto was a joke, and even then, it's ironic how the heat wave affected the very nations that proposed AND signed the protocol.

I don't know whether to laugh, or just laugh. Global warming is a joke.

Dude i can assure you global warming isnt a joke, kyoto is also certainly not a joke, and yes the heat wave affected the very nations that proposed and signed the protocol as it is a GLOBAL issue, the usa not signing the protocol just showed the ignorance and inability to accept that we have to change our ways in order to sustain this planet of ours. The US is resopnisble for about 40 % of the pollution released into the atmosphere, the usa is the single biggest polluter of the atmosphere. those of us that live in other countries who are trying to lower our consumption and output of fossil fuels and industrial waste for the good of the planet. we have had to make changes in our industry, which has cost billions, and yet the last remaining "super power" isnt willing to do so.

oh and by the way im not french, im an english man who is growing a little dismayed at the US's attitude towards the rest of the world. And before you say how you saved us from the nazis in world war 2 may i remind you that, before pearl harbour, the us ignored the whole situation, and after the war it made the UK PAY for the services the usa provided, sounds kinda like a mercenary action.

The american way....Ignorance is bliss

Dan

---