I wasn't arsed enough to read more than the first 2 posts so forgive me if I repeat something.

1. If the "experts" are "stumped" by it, and do not know how to fix it, make a scene as Circuit City or whatever. And FORCE them to replace it. They have to if you have a warranty.

2. Something similar happened with my sister's laptop (Apple iBook) It wouldn't work AT ALL. It got sent off to get fixed, they sent it back fixed and said nothing was wrong. (WTF?)
