Subject: Uh oh....help?
Posted by spreegem on Wed, 31 Dec 2003 00:32:31 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

We got my site working again, it was a problem with the IP address. But we restarted the server and now it won't finish restarting AGH it is stuck, one of my dad's friends who knows alot about linux, which is the operating system we are using for the web server, is out of town in Texas so we're pretty much screwed untill he gets back. We may have lost all the files as well, but I have a backup. So your phones are messed up now that you went to wireless to ehh? Well, I don't know how to change the frequency but I would imagine you should look through the manual and see if you can find anything. . . or there's always google, if you can't find something on google it doesn't exist.