xRYaNNxAircraftkillerFlorida has lots of lakefront property. That doesn't mean it's for sale, and if it was, it would be a hell of a lot more expensive than land in Nevada or Arizona... you didn't understand what spotelmo was saying I guess. :rolleyes:

No, I didn't. I'm accustomed to the term "If you believe that, I've got some lakefront property to sell you... It's right outside of Flagstaff, Arizona."

Maybe you just didn't get what I was hinting at. Ever think so?
