i really hope new tiberian (if it ever comes) doesnt suck... but I mean I really think its going to suck though. EA is all about the cookie-cutter mass appeal games. Its too bad the industry has figured out the same thing movie producers have: you can just find an interesting topic (like comics for the movies, or WW2/War Tactical games for the computer) and just crank them out, sequal after sequal. Theres no risk involved, and the envelope for new ideas never gets pushed very far. I guess everyone's first concern is money, and thats why things are the way they are. Thank God for companies like Rockstar games.
