Guys, guys....

This post is about some guy's war factory, not about politics..We all seem to possess the liking of fate that is beyond me, people are complaining about how the community is getting worse and growing weaker, this is because we care what other people think and because of this people leave.

We all need to let opinions that ourselves don't find appealing just fly right across our head and get on, two wrongs do not make a right.

Please, for the sake of the Community please can we all get along, this arguing is not doing us any good.
