It would be great to implment it with FDSweb, however, djlaptop is busy with rengaurd...

If you run a linux FDS server... this app is probaly no use to you because there is is no .net application driver for linux, they had chiliasp for aps apps...maybe soon they will have something for asp.net

As for ISS, well it is what it is, I have been running IIS server for some time and seems to be stable, but if you are too concerned with the security then there is nothing I can do...
