Maybe I piled on the sarcasm a little too much, but my point was that those automatic messages that several servers use, in response to the word "lag", are unnecessary and annoying. The majority of the time that I've gotten one of those messages, I haven't even been criticising the server - instead I've made a comment along the lines of "damn lag" as an expression of my frustration when my connection hasn't been so good. When you're having a bad game due to excessive warping and such, it's like an insult to injury to have some snide remark from the server. Some servers even auto-kick you if "lag" is repeated too many times, which I think is totally ridiculous.
