I'm against putting people in a concentration camp without a lawyer or a fair trial on even the slightest bit of intelligence. Also, when these people are put in jail/camps, they're families aren't told where they are going. It's just not how our country works.

If one part of the Patriot acts had a part about more wire-tapping capabilities, then I support that, not the whole act.

By the way, the Patriot acts have a really stupid name [probably] designed to make Bush seem like an All-American.
