Aircraftkiller Normally that's what I'd say, but they promised all these great things and insulted my work at the same time.

They promised they wouldn't release a beta test. They promised no bugs, no problems, huge support from EA, blah blah blah... If they don't want people calling them out on what they've promised, they shouldn't have made any at all.

True, but most of the promises came from AoD, the fuckwit who was just fired. Hopefully Renardin will be able to reshape Reborn into something playable and fun.

Besides, it seems kind of senseless to carry a grudge from one leader to the next. I do agree with you that they could show MUCH improvement, and when they do show that they are willing to receive advice and help, perhaps you can drop it and help them out a bit.

Then again, you could always continue this mod war.

Your decision.
