

---

Subject: Terrorism

Posted by KIRBY098 on Tue, 16 Mar 2004 11:48:05 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

You forgot the Panamanian FUBAR.

A platoon of SEALs airdropped at night into choppy water, overloaded with gear. Men die, and the SEALs dump all their gear, but their rifles. Then once ashore, the nitwit in command gets his platoon pinned down on the tarmac of the airport while trying to take out Noriega's planes. Major loss of life from the Panamanian regulars in the hangar. The regulars find out that skipping bullets off the tarmac is quite efficient at slaughtering SEALs.

The only part of this that went well was blowing up his personal yacht.

This is why SEALs should not be incorporated into JSOC, and why they should not be directly supervised by the Joint chiefs. Glory hounds in Washington get warriors slaughtered.

---