revenueu made the maps when u liked renegade..... and this renalert, i am not sure whats keeping u working on it..... and not a newbie and i dont have a short memory.... it really suggest that u r jealous cause you flame them like this... and i not saying titan, its every other map maker.. and i will write "you" as "u", y do U care!?

Why do I work on it? Because I liked Red Alert, it was where I started with this community, and I want to faithfully transition it from RTS to FPS and make it as enjoyable as possible.

Unlike Renegade, which got bastardized upon conception due to suits at EA and an asinine producer.

Renegade Alert is not Renegade. It uses the same engine, but that doesn't make it Renegade any more than Red Alert being a simple "mod" of Tiberian Dawn. They both use the same engine, yet RA is different almost completely.

Quote:Ack you answered your own statement, it says you "cant" do anything for the community not that you "have not", and as for glacier dont get me started on that POS, i bet not even 5% of renegade servers run the map. true i haven't done nothing for the community, but i never professed to. The thing that annoys me the most is your reluctance to give other people credit for the work they have done, whenever i see you post, all you do is cuss and flame, and you still expect people to give you respect.

Stop kissing your own ass, wipe the shit outta your eyes and take a look around you

First off, my name isn't "Ack." It's like me calling you "dickhead," even if you are one, it's still not the proper term to refer to you as.

I know several servers that run Glacier Flying, regardless of how problematic it is. It's almost two years old, too - it's bound to have problems, not unlike the standard multiplayer levels themselves.

The fuck are you talking about? I give everyone credit for what they do if they've helped me.

I don't expect anyone to give me respect. I've told people, time and again, that I couldn't give a rat's hairy ass about people like you. Only those I talk with on a daily basis through some form of IM service matter to me. As for people like you, the second I turn off this computer and get up to go to work, I forget about you until I come back and see you post some self-serving garbage about how you hate me and all this other meaningless shit.

I'm so hurt. :rolleyes:

I don't kiss my own ass. I'm very critical of myself because I aspire to do the best I can with what I design and create.

Since you've been wrong on almost everything you just wrote out... I would shut up, if I were in your position, since you seem to care about forum visitor respect.

Like it matters...
