Subject: I need some help...

SkitBrai think there is some fix for playing RA1 in winxp but i have no idea where to find it.

i have it somewhere but i dont want to start looking for it since that would take a lifetime to find amongst my CD's.

try by visiting all the old RA sites or google around it should be out there somewhere.

Scythar(Yes I've tried the patches and all).

He's already tried that, what he's asking is how to get sound from his old computer through his newer one. I would say the best way would be by Seaman's suggestion. Another way is to use a cable to plug your older computer from the port you'd normally plug your speakers into, to the "Line In" port on your newer computer. Then to stop sound coming from your old PC constantly , you can mute the "Line In" in your volume settings.
