What the issue is , is not partisan party politics though. It's integrity. Bush has guts, vision, and follow through despite a very difficult, and uphill battle.

Rather than the pacification of prior offices both Republican and Democrat, we see a man who is tired of America being attacked, and is bringing the fight to the scumbags at thier own doorstep.

Yes, it has raised anger, recruitment, and fueled terrorism, but if they are on the run in fear of thier life, they cannot mount effective attacks like they have. The time is now to confront this global war that no one wanted, but everyone now has.

Crush them now, before they kill our children. Whatever the costs.
