Hmmm this little animation seems a little more fitting with how over the past many years the Canadian Gov't has messed with our forces greatly. Canceling contracts for new hardware, buying used equipment (Though very good and useful) that we must spend even more money refitting and getting to a working standard, and cutting overall funding greatly.

Though recently I am over joyed that more and more awareness about the Canadian Forces is being displayed by the media and Gov't and that in turn is kind of reversing this effect, innovative new technologies are on their way for our service men and women and funding is being pumped up even more!!

Heh it is so encredably late that in the morn that will look all wronge and I'll delete it... maybe.
