This seems to be a issue with the compiled exe file, and not with brenbot itself. brenbot gets executed. Not sure what causes it, but I think you would have a problem with ANY compiled perl exe file. Might be the os.

However, I have a workaround that worked on a win2000 box (running the exe does does nothing).

Install Active Perl 5.8, available at http://downloads.activestate.com/ActivePerl/Windows/5.8/ActivePerl-5.8.3.809-MSWin32-x86.msi

When I had that, my compiled exe file would run.

Try that.
